TRADE MARK.

BRANCH OFFICE FERTIG BLOCK, Titusville, Pa.

MANUFACTURERS OF LAP WELDED Tubing & Casing Both Plain and Galvanized, for Oil and Salt Wells, American Charcoal Iron Boiler Tubes. Lap Welded Tubing for Steam and Water.

SOLE MANUFACTURERS OF W. C. ALLISON'S PATENT JOINT Oil Well Tubing.

This Superior Tubing is furnished with heavy sockets, and is cut with a vanishing screw thread, corresponding exactly with the thread in the socket, so that when screwed up it has a bearing the whole length of the joint; and the absence of a deep thread on the tube at the end of the socket obviates the liability to break at that point from the vibration caused by the action of the pump.

Each length and socket is stamped with our trade mark, and is carefully tested before shipment with a hydraulic pressure of 1,200 pounds to the square inch.

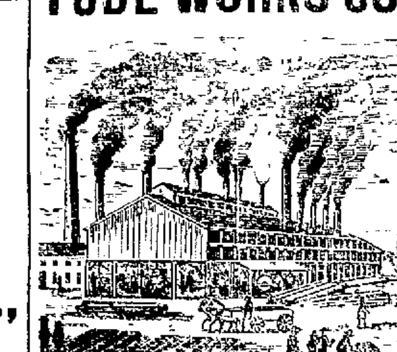
NATIONAL TUBE WORKS CO.,



BOSTON, MASS.

MANUFACTURERS OF LAP-WELDED OIL WELL Tubing & Casing.

We would call the particular attention of dealers and producers to this make of Tubing and Casing. One of the important features in the manufacture of our Tubing is, that the Lap and the Weld are made perfectly straight, smooth and uniform, thereby giving equal and great strength to the tubing throughout.

Each joint carefully inspected, reamed at end, and proved with the sockets on at a hydraulic pressure of 1,200 pounds to the square inch before shipment.

Each length stamped with the [illegible] Diamond "B." no17-tf

National Union Republican Convention.

The undersigned, constituting the National Committee designated by the Convention held at Chicago on the 20th of May, 1868, hereby call a Convention of the Union Republican party at the city of Philadelphia, on Wednesday, the 5th day of June next, at twelve o'clock, noon, for the purpose of nominating candidates for the offices of President and Vice President of the United States.

Each state is authorized to be represented in the Convention by delegates equal to twice the number of senators and Representatives to which it will be entitled in the next National Congress, and each organized territory to send two delegates.

In calling this Convention, the Committee remind the country that the promises of the Union Republican Convention of 1868 have been fulfilled. The States lately in rebellion have been restored to their former relations to the Government. The laws of the country have been faithfully executed, public faith has been preserved and the national credit firmly established. Governmental economy has been illustrated by the reduction, at the same time, of the public debt and of taxation, and the funding of the national debt at a lower rate of interest has been successfully inaugurated. The rights of naturalized citizens have been protected by treaties, and immigration encouraged by liberal provisions. The defenders of the Union have been gratefully remembered and the rights and interests of labor recognized. Laws have been enacted, and are being enforced, for the protection of persons and property in all sections. Equal suffrage has been engrafted on the National Constitution, the privileges and immunities of American citizenship have become a part of the organic law, and a liberal policy has been adopted toward all who engaged in the rebellion. Complications in foreign relations have been adjusted in the interest of peace throughout the world, while the national honor has been maintained. Corruption has been exposed, offenders punished, responsibility enforced, safeguards established, and now, as heretofore, the Republican party stands pledged to correct all abuses and carry out all reforms necessary to maintain the purity and efficiency of the public service. To continue and firmly establish its fundamental principles, we invite the co-operation of all the citizens of the United States.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan 11, 1872.

A New Chapter of Erie.

A BOHEMIAN SPY GIBBETED IN THE HERALD—REFORM IN PUBLIC OPINION.

From the New York Herald.

We print this morning an extraordinary story. The history of Erie has many romantic—many villanous features, and the strange chapter elsewhere published will throw a flood of light upon the extraordinary methods by which great corporations strive to control public opinion, and the still stranger facility with which a newspaper press may become an instrument for evil in the hands of bold and ambitious men. A revelation of this kind will do more to clear the atmosphere, and show the machinations of the desperate men who would make themselves masters of public opinion, of the Legislature and the press, than any contribution that could be made to the discussions of to-day.

With the worthless Bohemian who makes this confession we have nothing to do. He represents his vile Bohemian class. A great journal like the Herald is served by all classes of men—adventurers and gentlemen, spies and scholars, mountebanks and thinkers. There is a class, of which this man is an example, who thrive on infamy. As a corrupted and miasmatic atmosphere generates vermin and typhoid and noxious vapors, so an atmosphere tainted with crime and bribery calls into life all manner of vagabonds and scoundrels. There might be a moral deducted from all this. When people wander from the straight paths of rectitude and honor, when men feel that there is a devious road to wealth and power; when distinction and profit can be gained by the process which gave Rob Roy and Jack Sheppard notoriety and power; when it is possible for an influence like Erie to rise into power in a season and absorb the functions of the press and the Legislature, there is something wrong in public opinion. We see an example of what might be called moral epidemics in history. The Roman republic was founded by austere and virtuous men. The time came when luxury took the place of probity and crime superseded law, and it was a blessing to mankind when the rude and warlike tribes of barbarous Europe overran the empire, stamped it out of an infamous existence and established upon the ruins the noble nations of France and Germany. We saw a reaction from one of those epidemics. The rise of the Commonwealth in England. The reign of the corrupt Henry and the foolish Charles, with the absence of manly honor and patriotism, the development of an ambitious Church, the establishment of a Star Chamber and the violation of the principles of Magna Charta were followed by the severe reign of Cromwell, when a king went to the block and the ancient castles of noblemen were battered to the ground, and Ireland and Scotland were harried and smitten. We saw what France became under the Regency. Luxury, pomp, folly, prostitution, infamy, cowardice reigned in high places, and the armies of France were marched to defeat and shame at the bidding of a Pompadour. But France arose. The Revolution came like the lava which swept from Vesuvius, and out of the bloody and murky flames of this wonderful time, with their massacres and executions and upheaval of society, we see even now—luminous and beautiful, the brave and virtuous forms of Roland and Vernigaud and Carnet. There came a nobler and purer public sentiment—a France that became the arbiter of Europe, and but for the reckless ambition of the First Bonaparte, might have retained the mastery until to-day.

Is it possible that America is passing through the same ordeal; that we are at the end of a moral epidemic like what we see in history? We are afraid that the darkest pages of Roman, English or French history will not surpass what our own history has shown in the last ten years. What Cæsarism did for Rome, and Bourbonism for France, slavery has done for America. We saw a power grow up in the country which gradually became interwoven into our politics, our society and our religion. Public honor was debauched. Men and women were bought and sold, and families torn asunder for purposes of merchandise. The manners of the plantation were introduced into our legislative and official life. Then came the war as a great purifying influence—to be to America what the invasion of the Gauls proved to Rome, the rise of Cromwell to England, the outburst of the revolution to France. But every war brings evils. After the Revolution came Bonaparte and imperialism. After Cromwell we had the Restoration and the Stuarts. So after our own war we had the Whisky Ring and Tammany Hall and Erie. The history of these stupendous frauds will always form a dismal page in our records. The love of money and the unsettling of society generated the frauds upon the revenues, when even a great government threw up its hands and confessed that it was unable to enforce its laws—when Senators were bought and sold, as we saw in impeachment—when Legislatures were bought and sold, as we saw in Kansas and Pennsylvania. With this came the prodigious and fearful rise of Tammany, which ruled New York, sat in the chair of authority in Albany, and aimed to choose the Presidency of the United States. And, afterall, came Erie!

Public opinion overthrew the Whisky Ring and gave us good government in the hands of Grant. Public opinion dethroned Tammany and overwhelmed the fearful infamies of the Ring. We now invoke public opinion to do the same work for Erie. The exposure in another column cannot be overlooked by the people. The history of Erie is not unfamiliar to the world. The blazing, brief and bloody career of the Prince of Erie has given it a romantic interest, but with this we have no concern now. The "Prince of Erie," was only an exhalation of Erie. The great evil remains. The wantonness of the masters of Erie, their ambition and their recklessness, still lead them to aim at the control of the Legislature. We do not know how far they have succeeded, but their desperate straits are plainly shown in the story we print this morning. It is a satisfaction to feel that in this time of general convulsion the press remains free and untrammeled. We see in this that the press is true to its mission as the representative of public opinion. There is a latent virtue in every community. We saw it in France; we saw it in England; we see it in the United States. Erie may live to day and to-morrow, but it cannot live forever. America must throw off the influence of Erie as it threw off Tammany and slavery and the thieves of the Whisky Ring. The general desire for investigation now seen in all circles and all legislative bodies shows that there is a moving of the waters. In this work the press must play a mighty part.

There is a plain way of settling the whole Erie question. When a bank or a business man loses the money of customers through the crimes of subordinates, the loss is made good. In the interest of national honor New York, which has virtually guaranteed the integrity of the Erie direction by making laws for its government, should make good to the innocent shareholders the money which has been stolen by the rapacious masters of the Ring. New York is the centre of commerce and enterprise, the seat of wealth, and to New York peculiarly we must look for the protection of the nation's honor. If this Classification bill is not repealed we make ourselves partners in this Erie iniquity. The vulgar clamor about the "English stockholders" and "British interests in America" is only pandering to vulgar prejudice. Englishmen have rights in America as well as Americans. If they lend us money we must repay them. No one but a thief and a coward would counsel any other course; and the mere suggestion that we should do otherwise—no matter from what quarter it comes—stamps the author as a thief and a coward. To find such an argument serious adduced in an assembly of American gentlemen, with any hope of its being considered, is an evidence of public demoralization that is too painful to be patiently contemplated. Therefore, again, we say that not to repeal this infamous Erie bill—and drive Mr Gould and his colleagues out of the control of this vast and noble property—is to make our Legislature virtually a partner in the Erie crimes. Erie is a blot upon our national honor, and we are bound to remove it, and to unite in the work as a city, a State and a nation.

We believe this will be done, for public opinion is always sure to be right in the end. No matter what infamies may reign, no matter how strong they may become, in time the instinct of truth and loyalty and patriotism will triumph. In this time of revolution, for a revolution it is, we shall do our duty, as we do it to-day. We regard these men as public plunderers, who in a ruder age would have been hanged on Tyburn tree. We invoke no such punishment, but we gibbet them in the pillory of public opinion for the execration of mankind.

DONN PIATT ON THE BECK AND BROWNLOW UNPLEASANTNESS

From the Washington Capital.

Our regard for parliamentary etiquette is so great, if that of Congress is not, that we do not wish to allow these independent remarks to be mixed up with our regular record of the proceedings. If we had a prize fighting column, that would be the most appropriate place for these matters of which we are about to speak. We hope Vice President Colfax and Speaker Blaine will not consider these reflections ironical. Our sadness is too great to admit of sarcasm.

Beck versus Brownlow, and then Brownlow versus Beck. Why is it that the letter B is such a fatal one? From Babel building to Brownlow babbling through all the centuries, B has only gone before a name to ruin it. To show that we know what we are talking about, we instance Byron, Bonaparte, Borgia, Blair, Butler, Beck and Brownlow. If we were more classic, we might show up an antique Greek or two, and a solemn but wicked old Roman, whose patronymic or surname commenced with this scarlet letter. If we chose to be highly moral, we would take old Beelzebub by the ears and hold him up to a grinning but ghastly reader. We would search the languages, the encyclopedia, the thesauruses of every literature, as our statesmen do, to find the wherewithal to illustrate our statement.

But, we forbear. We trust the readers of these remarks have too much confidence in our assertions to put us to all this trouble. We now proceed.

Beck, in the course of a speech spangled all the way through with personalities, finally approached Parson Brownlow's biography in this touching way. He said that the old preacher had made a pandemonium of Tennessee, and in company with other Southern Governors (meaning Clayton) had only found refuge from the penitentiary in the United States Senate. The truth of this assertion lay in the bearing of it, as Jack Bunsby (another one with a B) might say.

Clayton may be no great shakes, but Brownlow is. Had the latter been a younger man he would have made an arrangement with the ordnance department, or Rate Ingalls, for a battery, and with Remington for ammunition, and then taken the field and blown off the upper half of Beck's head. But the Parson's fighting days are over. His daily conflict with grim death is about all he can comfortably tend to now. But in their ashes live the wonted fires. If he can't shoulder a columbiad, Brownlow can sling dictionary with all his accustomed vigor. We say dictionary through courtesy. We won't risk our reputation that all the words hurled at Beck by Brownlow can be found in Webster's unabridged. First Brownlow called the Kentuckian a slave-driver, then a liar, then a scoundrel, then a villain, then a coward, then—a Congressman!

Then came Beck for a reply. He is not the master of invective and vituperation that a truly Southwestern representative should be. He has not agony enough. He can not make the blood curdle and the flesh creep. He cannot take the lurid lightning in one hand, and pluck down a mountain crag with the other, and first blast and then bury the matchless fiend who dares hold personal debate with him. He can not strip from the forehead of assumption the midnight cloak of deception, and flay the atrocious braggart with the resistless look of scorn. Oh! where was the spirit of Kentucky on this occasion? Where were those mighty orators of the past, who would have sent Brownlow reeling to destruction, and would have raised him up on the stupendous heights of ridicule, only to have cast him down at last in the bottomless depths of inky despair? The bright escutcheon of Kentucky is tarnished, and her flag of vituperation trails in the dust. Beck himself lies smouldering under a monument of eight-syllabled adjectives, and invective, with his thousand iron feet, has trampled on Kentucky honor.

And Brownlow! S'death! He shooteth arrows tipped with the juice from the fangs of the rattlesnake! The lightnings that play about the peaks and crags of his mountain home are as the faint glimmerings of the glow-worm to the lurid flashing of his rhetoric! His sentences crack and rattle like mighty claps of thunder! Annihilation follows them! Each period rushes into the ear like the roar of an express train into a tunnel! He topples over his antagonist as a whirlwind topples the tender saplings of the prairie. When he says "fiend!" all the demons in Pandemonium say "ha! ha!" When he points at the "inky heart" of his opponent, another night rushes on midnight, and the raven hues of blackness grow more fearfully somber! And when in logical descent, come perjurer, forger, felon, outcast, knave and Senator, pity prays for compassion on the trembling victim! But mercy never comes, and sometimes death, and sometimes another speech from the sufferer, is the only relief! We are not a sentimental philanthropist, but it troubles us to see the intellectual giants of earth thus trifle with the mighty powers of language. If we had our way, we would stop this pulling of men to pieces inch by inch. We would send our belligerents to the field of honor, each supplied with forty rounds of cartridges, lunch, beverages and a swivel gun. We would tell them, as the famous Morgan once said, "aim at the whites of the enemies' eyes." And then we would pick up what remnants we could of the lunch and the antagonists, and feel that we had done humanity a service. One word more.

The States of Tennessee and Kentucky adjoin each other, wedded together by nature. On the map their propinquity seems to produce but love and peace. It is only man who brings discordant elements to these empires, which seem to unite in producing rich grass and umbrageous trees. Why can not Kentucky nestle affectionately to Tennessee in Congress? Why should the representatives of these States seek to rival the black loam soil of their native heaths in all the fecundity of their blackguardism? Their ways should be ways of pleasantness, and all their paths of peace. Alas for the wickedness of Congressmen as well as other mortals! Alas for the fallibility and pugnaciousness of parsons! Heaven, and that surpassing harmony of the meek and forgiving, can only be reached by the disappointed eyesight of the countrymen of Clay and Jackson. May the spirit of reform soon reach the belligerents, and may they drown their animosities in that unctuous but muscular liquid which has given Bourbon to Kentucky as well as France.

"Fixing Things."

It is pleasant to hear a mechanic explaining the mysteries of his own craft. A good workman may not always be a glib talker, but a generous man, gifted in some specialty, is sure to become a teacher at every opportune moment. You want to know, say, how to fix the broken snap upon your bit blue. That old clock spring is just the stuff for your purpose.

Draw the temper by heating—it need scarcely be red—a black heat will do. Then file a bit of it into the proper shape, punching a hole for the rivet, doing all the finishing while the metal is soft. A little hand vice, with thumb-screw, comes in play here. Now for the tempering. First heat the spring red from end to end—it is only a bit of thin steel, an inch and a half or so long and a quarter of an inch wide, you know, easily held in the fire at the end of a wire. When as red as a cherry plunge it in oil—something that is not "warranted not to explode"—that would be dangerous; but whale oil will do. It is found that hot steel cools more equally in oil than water, and the uniformity of the chill is at the base of the evenness of the future spring temper. Now your spring is too hard and would be liable to break, as the old one did. You have to "draw the temper" a little, to make the spring pliable and tough. (You being seated at the open fireplace, or at the kitchen stove, of an evening) With oil can at hand and spring manageable at the end of wire or tongs, you oil it and hold immediately in the fire; when the oiled surface smokes and bursts into a blaze, take the spring away from the fire. Directly repeat this oiling, lighting the oil at the live coals and burning it off the steel as you take it away from the fire—three times in all. Then rivet in its place and you'll have a spring that you can depend upon. Rather limber, it seems to you, but it is so smart that you love to snap it three or four times to hear the click of it—quite different, indeed from the half of those you buy, which you try but once and snap your fingers, with a scowl of pain after. Of course you might have bought a new one, or waited at the machine shop while somebody mended this—quite as long they might be at it as you have been yourself, and perhaps not do it as well, either, charging you fifteen cents and wishing you wouldn't bother 'em any more at that. Also the operation is no lesson in fixing things for the little folks at home, unless it is performed by the home fireside, with all the particulars eagerly listened to with open mouth, and a chorus of triumphant admiration at the sound of the first trial snap after its leaving the corner of the flat-iron between your knees, where you have fastened the rivet. "O-o-o-o! Popper's fixed it again! Hear it snap! hear it snap!"

A Daring Aeronaut.

Young Donaldson, who made a balloon ascension at Reading, Pa., on the 30th of August last, and performed a series of trapeze feats when a mile or more from the earth, repeated his thrilling performance in Norfolk, Va., on Monday last. There was no basket to the balloon, but its place was supplied by a trapeze similar to those used by circus performers, and above the trapeze was placed a hoop, secured to which was a suit of heavy clothing to be used by the aerial voyager when he encountered the cold current.

The Norfolk Journal, in describing the ascension, says that when the balloon was released from its moorings and reached a great altitude, Donaldson suddenly and apparently with little effort, threw himself into a sitting posture on the bar, kissing his hand to the crowd below. Suddenly, pretending to lose his balance, he fell backwards, sliding head downwards until he caught by his toes on the side ropes that suspended the trapeze bar. In this perilous position he swung to and fro several seconds—a time which seemed an age to the awe-stricken crowd below. Throwing himself back in his seat on the bar, the aeronaut sat astride the same. Then began a series of gymnastic evolutions—balancing himself on his back, turning over and "skinning the cat" by the side ropes, &c. Upward grandly and steadily rose the balloon, cleaving the air like a mighty bird. When the balloon was a mere speck in the distance, invisible to the naked eye and almost through powerful telescopes, the man with nerves of steel and the heart of a lion repeated his daring trapeze feat of hanging head downwards suspended by his toes. Such a scene was never before witnessed in Norfolk, and seldom anywhere in the world.

The description of such a scene reads like a romance, but the reality far surpasses the most vivid powers of "word painting," and we desist from the vain effort to depict it. When the aerial ship had reached an altitude of about half a mile, and struck the cooler current of air, the aeronaut was observed to climb up to the hoop and get his suit of thick clothes. Descending to the bar, he dressed himself, and then resumed the gymnastic display—exercising himself to keep warm."

The Cincinnati Times does not at all flatter Senator Schurz in the following picture. A man of unscrupulous ambition, a revolutionist by instinct, nomadic and bohemian in his habits, he really cares little for the nation which has so hospitably received him as an adventurer, and regards this country in no more sacred light than mere v as a theater on which to display himself. His career here will be short, and when he is gone he will—like Fredrick Kapp before him—openly manifest himself as our bitter enemy and calumniator. If Schurz has any spark of the sentiment of patriotism in his bosom it is all Teutonic—consecrated to Fatherland.

Letter from Dansville.

OUR HOME, February 3rd, 1872

The balmy and delightful Spring weather which we have enjoyed for the past two or three weeks has changed to snow and sleet, and again the dreary reign of winter is over the earth. News from the South also brings intelligence of cold and stormy weather there, so we might as well prepare to face it boldly and not wish ourselves at home, for the same chilling winds and piercing blasts seem to be abroad all over the land, north and south, east and west.

Despite the frequent changes in the weather the patients here seem generally to be in a prosperous condition, and able to dispatch their two meals a day with a zest and relish ... It is worth one's while to come to this institution ... purpose than to learn how to save power and how to work to the best advantage without exhausting strength and vitality. It is difficult for some of hopes ... to realize ... the ... where ... energy is spent in a thousand useless ways, where, if people only understood the art of saving it, they would get well in half the time that they would otherwise require. If you are an invalid and expect to be cured ... until you ... But most persons ... they become ... until further progress ... upward ... absolutely impossible, and they stand still or slide backwards, wondering all the time what can be the matter ... to improve.

This is an ... Dr. Jackson is continually impressing it upon our minds that we must ... together, but ... a dispute. A patient, living ... why ... because ... a fortune which is needed ... If you only have a certain amount of ... and it requires most of it to keep up the ... small surplus in anything ... and you use up that surplus in talking ... it is ... in ... Writers ... asked to lay aside their pens ... their brains at rest ... and ... to be ... be dead ... and ... to ... and then ... with the ... ever ... together ... thinking ... and to have ... and then ... forget all about it, and ... passive ... as possible.

A lady ... in the ... day in New York ... been ... for ... at ... interesting and ... by ... she required rest, mentally and physically, to restore her to her usual ... she was frequently ... Miss ... in the midst of a ... exciting ... to ... which was so interesting as to call up the blood to the brain and rob it of rest. In this way so ... strength for ... drain ... to learn ... up the mind ... is a ... know ... this is ... would try to ... than ... who strive to live up to the knowledge taught them.

People who are not invalids and have never learned the lesson of saving power, waste it annually. They work at improper hours, and labor too long without resting. When one is tired he must rest, or great harm is done. All labor done after a person is really weary, is performed on borrowed strength and power. Persons ... with which every person is endowed to enable him to meet any emergency but ... pay the shorter our lives will be. This ... power which carries us on through old age, and if we have expended all we have ... to reach our prime, when ... the ... Those who ... everything ... to do, ... money than ... do not ... the ... Such people ... that they cannot ... to kill ... their hearts will ... on the ... morning ...

Ladies, don't let custom ... you to receive calls when you ... that you long for ... rest ... and ... cheerful and happy ... Have courage enough to be "excused," and lie down and take the rest that nature so loudly demands. This is due you as to your husbands and ... while a wife is weary and fretful when ... the entire family ... And though she may be so near a saint as not to give way to fretfulness and irritability yet she entertains her guests at the expense of reserved power which it is her duty to save for trying hours of sickness and sorrow which visit the happiest homes and call on the wife and mother for more strength and endurance than the strongest man can boast of possessing.

But my letter is growing long and I must close with one more parting word to my sisters: Simplify all your wants as much as possible, so that your cares may be lighter, and your hours of recreation more frequent. Do not work at night. Many people sow, read and write until a late hour, this is very bad and should never be indulged in by any one who cares to have good health. M

The Sober Second Thought

Congressional Proceedings.

HOUSE

WASHINGTON, Feb 27

Petitions were presented from the Pennsylvania miners, remonstrating against the reduction of the duty on coal and iron, and from the citizens of Harrisburg to repeal the duty on tea and coffee.

On motion of Mr. McGrew the Committee on Ways and Means was instructed to inquire into the expediency of abolishing the legacy or the succession of taxes occurring prior to October, 1870.

The bill for the retirement of mutilated bank notes was made the special order for the first Tuesday in April.

The bill authorizing banking officers to whom are presented counterfeit bills to stamp them as such was taken up. The House refused to vote, 57 to 96, to pass the bill, and it was recommitted.

Mr. Merriam reported a bill to facilitate the bank clearings of the House Exchange, which went over until to-morrow.

The House then went to the business on the Speaker's table and disposed thereof as follows: The Senate amendment to the House bill authorizing the construction of a bridge across the Missouri River, at St Joseph, concurred in; the Senate amendment to the House bill allowing the transportation of goods in bond, nonconcurred in, and was referred to the committee; the ... Senate bill extending the time for the completion of the Green Bay and Sturgeon Bay and Lake Michigan Ship Canal, the bill passed.

The Senate bill setting apart the Yellowstone Valley in Montana and Wyoming territories as a national park came up and was passed.

The House went into a committee of the whole on the deficiency bill.

The clause repealing the law for the publication of statutes in newspapers was stricken out as not in order.

Finally, after getting through half the bill, the committee rose and the House adjourned.

SENATE

On motion of Mr. Ramsey, the bill for the relief of P. M. Lindsay, of Chicago, passed.

On motion of Mr. Sherman, the bill passed authorizing the free importation of photographs and paintings for the Cleveland exhibition.

Mr. Conkling called up his resolution requesting information from the President as to persons recommended to office by Senator Nye.

Mr. Ferry spoke in opposition to the resolution and it went over.

TRIUMPH PA, Feb 1, 1872

Having this day purchased and taken possession of the above named water works, I propose carrying out the business efficiently, and respectfully solicit a continuance of the patronage extended to the late owners, and I would here invite those parties desirous of connecting with our lines to do so as early as possible.

I have appointed Mr. Peter Findley, manager of said works, who will attend to all business connected therewith, and who will also take pleasure in attending to the wants of all interested in getting fresh water for their boilers.

When the additions we immediately propose making to our lines are completed, we fully expect to be in a position to meet all demands for water that can be made on us, throughout the entire Triumph district. J W ALLISON, Triumph, Pa., Feb. 1, 1872

PATENT DRILLING JARS—NOTICE TO MANUFACTURERS.—Bryan, Dillingham & Co., and Gibbs, Russell & Co., of the city of Titusville, sole owners of the original patent of the Guillod Steel Jar, together with the various re-issues and improvements on the same, desire to give notice to machinist, blacksmiths and others wishing to manufacture the same, that they are now prepared to issue licences and make such other arrangements as will enable all to participate in the benefits of the invention at moderate cost and on the most reasonable terms. The efforts of the owners to the patent to establish their rights to the same through the medium of the courts—and in which those rights have been fully sustained—has not been made for the purpose of extorting from operators unusual or exhorbitant prices for those articles. On the contrary, every effort will be made to secure the public against a monopoly. For that purpose Mr A C Brainard has been appointed a general traveling agent to grant licenses to all who may desire to manufacture, and also to collect royalties from the same. The most liberal terms will be offered, and every effort will be made to protect the rights of all under the patent. And to this end notice is hereby given to every one engaged in the manufacture of the jars without a license, to discontinue the same at once, on penalty of being prosecuted for the infringement of said patent.

Any information in regard to terms will be fully given on application to the traveling agent, A C Brainard, or to Bryan, Dillingham & Co., and Gibbs, Russell & Co, Titusville.   feb10tf

SPECIAL NOTICES.

Four Millions of Invalids.—At the lowest computation there are never less than four millions of invalids in the United States. Of this number probably more than three fifths have neglected the ordinary precautionary necessary for the preservation of health and are suffering the punishment due to their carelessness. If the multitudes who are now afflicted with biliousness, indigestion, rheumatism, intermittent fever, irregularities of the bowels, general debility, nervous disorders, etc., had, at the very first symptoms of indisposition, invigorated, regulated, and purified their blood with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, two-thirds of them would at this moment be performing the active duties of life, unannoyed by any ailment of the body or the mind.

This assertion is made advisedly. It is founded on experience, and is borne out by the testimony of a countless host of witnesses whose attestations cover almost every variety of disease, and extend over a period of about twenty years. Of every thousand persons who take the Bitters, as a preventive of the complaints above enumerated, seven-eighths escape them entirely, and of every thousand who are actually attacked, and use the great Vegetable Tonic as a remedy, three fourths are radically cured. These are not hap-hazard assertions, but statistic facts. They are based upon the results of inquiries made by more than fifty thousand persons, in various parts of the country and upon the letters of prominent citizens of every state, it might almost be said of every county in the Union.

AN ORDINANCE

Relative to the numbering of buildings, etc

Be it enacted and ordained by the Mayor and Common Council of the City of Titusville

SECTION 1. That the committee appointed by the President of said Council on the 24 h day of January, 1872, in pursuance of an ordinance passed Sec 18 ..., providing for the numbering of the buildings and putting up of street signs, in said city, shall from time to time report progress setting forth the number of buildings that have been numbered, and also the number of street signs that have been put up with the name or names of street or streets on which said numbers and signs have been placed, with the expense of the same for the approval or disapproval of said council.

SECTION 2. If said council shall at any time approve and receive the work reported by said committee it shall then be the duty of said council, when at any time the work amounts to the sum of three hundred dollars, to direct the City Collector to collect the estimated amounts out of the property or property owners on whose property such numbers have been affixed and it shall be lawful for said Collector to collect the several amounts by restraint or otherwise as tax are collected by law.

SECTION 3. If the council shall at any time disapprove of the committee's report, it shall then be the duty of the committee to reconsider the work and report again and again until the work is satisfactory or until the committee is discharged.

SECTION 4. The Collector shall, after collecting the sum of one hundred dollars deposit the same with the City Treasurer, and the Collector shall not retain over that amount in his possession over twenty four hours, said Collector may retain for his fees the same per centage allowed him for collecting other city taxes. And it shall be the duty of the collector upon the finishing of the numbering to collect the balance of costs, though it be greater or less amount than is provided for in section 2 of this ordinance.

SECTION 5. Said council shall appropriate ample funds to be drawn from the City Treasury to pay the whole expense of putting up the street signs, to be drawn upon as the committee may see fit.

Passed in Council Feb 14 1872

REDEMPTION OF PETROLEUM BANK NOTES

Notice is hereby given that by the provisions of an act entitled An Act to authorize the Auditor General to deliver to the Receivers of the Petroleum Bank of Titusville, Crawford county, and to the Receiver of the Venango Bank of Franklin Venango county the United States bonds now remaining in his hands, originally deposited with him by said banks as a security for the redemption of the circulating notes of said banks.

It is provided by the second section of said Act—

"That said Receiver shall redeem all the outstanding circulating notes of said Petroleum and Venango Banks when presented to them for redemption, to and until the twenty-seventh day of March, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-two, after which payment of said notes will be barred.

"Provided, That said Receiver shall give notice for two months, in two weekly papers having the largest circulation in the counties where said banks are located previous to the time when notes will be barred stating in such notice the provisions of the second section of this Act."

All persons having in their possession any circulating notes of the Petroleum Bank will take notice of the provisions of said act and govern themselves accordingly.

The General Committee appointed by the meeting last evening are requested to meet at the Oil Exchange, Parshall House at nine o'clock this (Wednesday) morning for consultation

F W MITCHELL Chairman

The Meeting Last Evening.

The character of the meeting last night, its numbers, spirit, and determination, is a good omen It was not to be expected that much more would be accomplished there than to discuss the evil, and to consider various propositions and projects by way of remedy and relief We look to succeeding meetings and to the labors of the Committees to digest a proper scheme for our relief and defence Much that was said last night will receive thoughtful consideration by our readers to-day, and all classes of citizens will look to the deliberations of the Committee and their report with great anxiety, and trust that their action may be fruitful, efficient and wise We have no time or space for further remark at this early hour in the morning

VERY QUEER—In dispatches to the meeting last evening, which appear in their proper place in the proceedings, show the deep interest and anxiety felt abroad in the action of the producers, etc [illegible] A & G W Railroad, particularly [illegible] on his point, and Gen McClellan make haste to clear his skirts of any connection with the South Improvement Company But [illegible] must [illegible] be accepted as an [illegible], for Mr Jay Gould flatly contradicts McClellan and there is [illegible] hundred miles from Titusville, sustain [illegible] Gould and [illegible] will say—about [illegible] forgetfulness [illegible] much [illegible], and [illegible] particularly to be [illegible] the truth was known [illegible] leak out, we apprehend the Baltimore and Ohio roads are as deep in the mud as McClellan is in the mire, otherwise why did the Pennsylvania Railroad receive five [illegible] more and Oil interests [illegible]

FIRE LAST NIGHT —Last night about half past nine o'clock, a fire broke out in Mr Geo Ashur's grocery and liquor store on Franklin street, opposite Brown's hotel, which consumed the entire contents of the store and destroyed the building The store had been closed all the evening, Mr Ashur being in attendance at the public meeting in the Opera House When the doors were broken open no fire could be discovered, and the smoke was so dense that no one could enter In ten minutes from the discovery of the fire the building was one sheet of flame A colored family resided in the upper story and lost everything but a few trunks belonging to the [illegible] The building was owned by I S [illegible] insured in the Aetna for $1 200 which will [illegible] fully cover the loss Mr Ashur's stock was valued at about $6 000 insured for $4 000, of which the Aetna had $2 000 and the Andes $2 000 Spelman [illegible] adjoining on the south a brick building, received only a slight damage by water On the north, and separated from Jones' building by a narrow alley, is one of frame, and occupied by L D Clark's tin shop and the Franklin meat market The two latter stores sustained little damage The fire was controlled in a remarkably short time Chief Engineer Booth showed great skill in directing the streams of the engines, and the exertions of the firemen prevented the spread of the conflagration

ANOTHER FIRE —Just after the Franklin street fire was extinguished, and as the last engine was returning from the scene the cry of "fire" was heard again The alarm came from the drug store of Crane & Francis on Spring street, next to the American Hotel One of the attaches of the store had left a lamp burning in the cellar on a shelf early in the evening, and the chimney broke The flame communicated to a bottle of oil standing beside the lamp, which latter burst and the burning oil ran over igniting some straw in a barrel The night clerk was about to retire when he smelled the smoke The timely application of a few buckets of water extinguished the fire, and saved our city from an extensive conflagration The fire department was on hand but their services were not required

DIVORCE TO-NIGHT —The society sensation drama of Divorce," which is spoken of very highly by all our exchanges, will be presented to-night at the Opera-house, by the Fifth Avenue company No better recommendation to go and witness its production could be given than the following notice of the play and troupe, which we find in the Utica Daily Observer of a late date Messrs Embish & Wilton's Dramatic Company is one of the best combinations that has favored Utica with a call for many a day The ladies and gentlemen of the troupe appear to have been selected with great care for their respective parts in this play The ladies costumes were exceedingly rich and gracefully worn The gentlemen appeared in all the glory of fine broadcloth, faultless shirt fronts, white neckties and kids As one young man expressed it, "that party is bound to dress well if they don't make a cent." It is seldom that a dramatic company is assembled in which so much talent is well distributed There is a naturalness in speech and movements on the stage which indicated a close study of the details of the drama and a perfect knowledge of the text Each performer is cast for the character for which he or she is best qualified Where all performed their parts excellently, it would be unjust to the general merits of the troupe to particularize

THE well noticed by us in our yesterday's issue, belonging to Hise, Tarbill and others, was sixteen feet in the sand, yesterday afternoon, and flowing

Large and Enthusiastic Meeting of Producers, Refiners and Citizens

COUNTER MOVEMENT AGAINST THE SOUTH IMPROVEMENT COMPANY—TELEGRAMS SPEECHES RESOLUTIONS AND COMMITTEES FOR CONSULTATION—DELEGATIONS FROM ERIE AND JAMESTOWN HEARD FROM VARIOUS PROPOSITIONS AND PROJECTS DISCUSSED

The largest, most imposing and enthusiastic public meeting ever held in the oil regions crowded the Opera-house last evening It was the fairest and fullest representation of the wealth, intelligence and business of the oil regions ever convened for any purpose A large proportion of the audience was made up by delegations from the surrounding oil districts, from Tidioute, Enterprise, Shamburg, Rouseville, Petroleum Centre, Oil City, Franklin, Parker's Landing, etc Large and respectable delegations from the city of Erie, Pa, and from Jamestown, N Y, representing her leading men were also present The foreign delegations by courtesy were assigned the parquette Mr L H Severance, of Titusville, called the meeting to order by nominating Mr L E Clapp, of President, as temporary Chairman, who, on taking the chair, observed that a critical period had arrived in the fortunes of the oil regions, calling for mutual consultation and united action on behalf of the producing interest to rescue them from the grasp of a monopoly It we were to fall victims to such a combination, if we were to be made sport of and our eyes put out, we at least would have the consolation of Samson, for laying our hands on the pillars of this temple, we will pull it down, burying our enemies in the grave they had dug for us

On motion Mr H C Boss was appointed temporary Secretary

D Shamburg moved that a committee on permanent organization be appointed by the Chair Carried The Chair appointed as such committee, D Shamburg, of Shamburg Lyman Stewart of Titusville, B D Benson, of Enterprise, W W Hague, of Tidioute, W S McMullen, of McClintockville

The Committee on Permanent Organization reported the following

President—C Hydrick Vice Presidents—Jas S McCray Pet Centre L B Gaudin, Tidioute R L Hopkins Enterprise, S Q Brown, Pleasantville, C D Angel, Saratoga D Crawford, Parker's, John Gailey, Petersburgh, John Porterfield, Lamberton, F Prentice, Franklin, H J Bim, Rouseville, Geo Boulton, Columbia, Dr S Shamburg, Shamburg Charles H Duncan, Pithole C I Allen, Jamestown, [illegible] John J Fisher, Oil City W S McMullen McClintock

Secretaries—Wm Baugh, Franklin M N Allen, Titusville, H C Boss, Titusville, J McCray, Petroleum Center, D [illegible] Egbert, Petroleum Centre, Geo Boulton Columbia, Dr Shamburg, Shamburg, [illegible] Brown Tarr Farm The [illegible] C H Duncan, Pithole, E G Patterson Church Run R Fisher, [illegible] C M Bly, [illegible] C D [illegible] Crawford, Parker's Wm Parker, Pithole John Gailey, Parker's [illegible] Wm Hart [illegible] Parker James M Sunbrine Parker A H Brown Church Run A S Rals [illegible], Wm A Shreve, Cherry Tree F W Andrews, Brady's Bend W S McMullen, McClintock, Colonel Allen, Jamestown

The Columbia Farm band, which accompanied the delegation from down the creek, took their places on the platform and discoursed stirring music, while such mottoes as "Don't Give Up the Ship," No Surrender, "United We Stand," etc, excited a good deal of applause and enthusiasm in the audience, as they were nailed to the drop scenes

Mr Haydrick on taking the chair returned thanks for the distinction, and said he perceived that the meeting meant business, that no ordinary occasion had brought them together, a blow had been aimed at the prosperity of the whole region This gigantic monopoly is not the growth of a day, it was not until the moral sense of the community had been debauched that it had been attempted We were bound hand and foot This was the occasion of our troubles Let us strike at the root

At the conclusion of the Chairman's remarks, the following telegrams were read to the meeting, exciting considerable feeling and applause The one from Jay Gould contradicting Gen McClellan's, the truth of which were equally vouched for raised great laugh The following were the dispatches The signatures to the first and third one are withheld by request

Mr E G Patterson read the following from an oil circular published in Philadelphia, explaining the plan of the South Improvement Combination Company

The object of this combination of interests is understood to be twofold—first to do away, at least in a great measure, with the excessive and undue competition as now existing between the refining interests, by reason of their being a far greater refining capacity, than is called for or justified by the existing petroleum consuming requirements of the world Secondly, to avoid the heretofore undue competition between the various railroad companies transporting oil to the sea board, by fixing a uniform rate of freight, which it is thought can be adhered to by some such arrangement as guaranteeing to each road some such per centages of the profit of the aggregate amount of oil transported, whether the particular line carries it or not It is also asserted that a prominent feature of the combination will be to limit the production of refined petroleum to such amounts as may serve to, in a great measure, do away with the serious periodical depressions in the article It is also to be expected, that, desiring to curtail the production of refined petroleum in this country, the railroads will not offer any additional facilities for exportation of the crude article The combination referred to is understood to embrace a majority of the most prominent manufacturers of the United States, as well as a number of the shrewdest of our railroad officials

On motion the following gentlemen were appointed a committee on resolutions Captain Butler, Tidioute, M N Allen, Titusville, E G Patterson, Church Run, Gen McCalmont, Franklin, Wm Hartley, Parkers

Mr Hartley read the following paper subscribed by leading oil operators at Parkers

The undersigned, representing the oil producers of the Parker's Landing district, respectfully beg leave to state that there is in said district but one unanimous outburst of indignation at the alleged attempt of a certain corporation known as the South Improvement Company to control the purchase and sale of the petroleum production, that the feeling among all classes, particularly those who earn their living by hard toil day and night, is such that we fear (whilst we do not countenance the same) the most disastrous consequences to those engaged in the alleged infamous plot So far as we have been able to learn, the views of not only the producers, but even of men whose business success depends upon activity in oil production, there is a unanimous determination, and what may be called active acquiescence of all concerned to cease operations forthwith by the disuse of torpedoes, and refusal to commence further drilling

It is also the determination of the principal operators to increase their tankage, raise funds to relieve themselves and small operators by using oil as collateral security, if necessary, and in the meantime aid in furnishing an outlet for our production to the markets of the world being well assured that Providence favoring us—if there be no other found more direct to the markets of Europe—we have it in the great highway of water to New Orleans, to which oil may be shipped in a crude or refined state

Judge Galbraith, of Erie, addressed the meeting He said they had an enthusiastic meeting at Erie the night previous to consider the same subject now presented to this meeting The question is, what is to be done to protect you against this combination? You are struggling in the coils of the anaconda The railroads and the oil refiners have formed the most powerful coalition ever organized on this continent, and sought to grasp and fetter the whole oil region The only way of escape was by securing an outlet to the lake You don't want to cross half a dozen railroads to reach Buffalo, and encounter obstacles at every junction He had no faith in railroad promises Erie and its neighborhood put a million dollars in the P & E Railroad, and the only acknowledgment they had for it was being compelled to pay the road a half dollar more per barrel to deliver oil at Erie than at Cleveland The people should trust no one but themselves, for it was easy enough to write lying telegrams as had just been illustrated in the contradictory dispatches just read

It is but 45 miles to Erie, and there you have the free highway, created and controlled only by God Almighty It is the best harbor on the lakes, having five and a half miles of water front, and more if needed Erie will take half the stock in a road from Titusville, and he was instructed to say so The road can be built in four months, and for eight months in the year you have all the transportation required Erie is ready for business, and if you are equally in earnest, and will do your share to relieve yourselves of this desperate strait, it can be accomplished without unreasonable delay

Ex Senator Lowry, of Erie, remarked that he was a young man and very bashful, or he would say what the oil regions needed was to find a way to the entrance of the Welland canal, and that was within fifty miles of us He was concerned in one railroad and aiding to build it, and if that was suspected of belonging to the ring he hoped they would kick it in the belly

W L Lay, of Oil City, read the following resolutions

Whereas, The petroleum business is in a very unhealthy condition because of the supply being now larger than the demand, and

Whereas, This surplus quantity is produced almost entirely from new wells, and

Whereas, The entire business of the Venango petroleum region is threatened with serious loss, if not entire destruction, by the combination of railway and other companies to charge enormous and outrageous freights for carrying petroleum to the sea board cities and dividing this money with outside parties unknown to the trade, and

Whereas, The Southern Improvement Company, a monopolizing ring, owned by railway officials, propose to manage the petroleum and carrying of petroleum in their own interest, and are represented to own a capital of ten million dollars for this purpose, therefore,

Resolved, That to lessen the quantity of petroleum production to say 12 000 barrels per day, so that it will sell at the wells for an average price of five dollars per barrel, this meeting recommend that no new wells be commenced during the months of March, April and May, that all pumping wells be stopped on Sunday, except those that are permanently injured thereby

Resolved, That this meeting recommend to all producers, dealers and shippers, to ship their oil out of the region only on that road that will carry it at lowest freights, without drawback, and that will agree to make a rate for oil that shall not be changed during the months of March, April, May, June, July, August, September and October, that will make a higher rate for it to continue during November, December, January and February

Resolved, That measures be at once taken to enforce suits against all railway companies that pay drawbacks to shippers of petroleum or to pipe lines, and that the suits be prosecuted until their charters are forfeited to the State

Resolved, That this meeting recommend to all business men in the region to give every encouragement in their power to the building of a new railway from the oil region to the city of Erie

On motion, the resolution was referred to the general committee

Mr D H Waite, of the Jamestown committee, read the following address

At your request I appear before you this evening in behalf of the delegation from Jamestown, N Y, to present the claims of their proposed new railway, and in order to occupy as little of your time as possible, I have reduced what we have to offer to writing, in as concise terms as possible, and invite your attention to the following points

It is proposed to go from Titusville to Garland, 17 miles, thence to a point near Youngsville, 5 miles, thence up the Patch run to near Sugar Grove, 7 miles, thence down the Stillwater valley to the State line, 4 miles, thence on the Stillwater through Busti to the plank road gap in Kiantone, and thence to Jamestown, 8 miles north of State line, crossing the A & G W at that place, thence down the outlet to Worksburg, 3 miles, crossing the D W & P at that place, thence still down the outlet through Poland to the Conewango valley, thence up that valley through Cherry Creek, Villenova and Hanover, crossing the Erie railway near Smith's Mills, thence crossing the Cattaraugus Creek near Versailles, and thence through Erie county, in the second tier of towns south of the lake, to Buffalo

The distances as are as follows

From Titusville to State line, 32 miles, from State line to Jamestown, 8 miles, from Jamestown to Buffalo, 65 miles, and we think probably less, as the distance from Jamestown to Buffalo via Dunkirk is only 70 miles, and the proposed route is more direct total, 105 miles, being 15 miles nearer than the present route from Titusville to Buffalo via Corry and Brocton This route, as any one can see by the map, is very nearly direct, and all the way follows valleys and gaps, so that no heavy cuttings will be required and no expensive bridge or crossing will be necessary, except near Versailles, and the crossing of the Cattaraugus creek at that place is the most favorable point on the stream We are informed that the steepest grade from this place to Garland is only 26 feet to the mile, and we know of no reason why that grade should be exceeded upon the whole route

For years a strong feeling has prevailed upon the line of this route from Buffalo to Jamestown to build the road Meetings have been held in the various towns east of us, and propositions made to issue bonds to build this road, but the people of Jamestown have not felt able to build their proportion of this road, merely for the purpose of a connection with Buffalo We desired that the road should go on to some coal region or business point When it was published that the D W & P had united with the Pennsylvania Central a call was issued for a meeting on Saturday evening last, at Jamestown, of [illegible] and at that meeting we were elected delegates to come to Titusville and present for your consideration our route for a new railway At the time we had no knowledge of this meeting, and that is why we appear before you now, unaccompanied by delegations from Buffalo and other points upon the proposed route, and with definite statements of what they can and will do

We, therefore, can only assure this evening that the people upon the line of this road in New York have a vital interest in the construction of this railway, and in almost every town through which it may pass, will issue their bonds in its aid

For Buffalo we can say that she has already mainly built two lines of railway south through Erie and Cattaraugus Co to McKean Co, Pa mainly for the purpose of striking coal where they are mining coal veins only 18 inches in thickness, and of a very inferior quality Buffalo must have cheap coal, and no where in our opinion can she obtain it of good quality, and paying quantities, except in this direction A road from Buffalo to Titusville, 105 miles, and then south westerly through the oil regions to Butler and Mercer counties, Pa, will furnish Buffalo an almost direct route to inexhaustible mines of good coal, and upon a line 15 to 20 miles shorter than by any existing line of railways No railroad leading from Buffalo, except the New York Central, would pass through an agricultural region so fertile and prosperous, and so thickly studded with thriving towns and villages, as our proposed new railway We think we can confidently promise, in behalf of the manufacturers of Buffalo, to whom cheap coal has become a necessity, and who, with a wise foresight are looking out for important railroad connections, that they will do their full share and that promptly in the construction of our proposed road

In relation to our own town and vicinity we have to say that the town of Ellicott has already issued its bonds for $60 000 to apply upon a portion of this route, and we pledge in behalf of the citizens of Ellicott and Bath that eleven miles of this road, from the D W & P Railroad to the State Line we will build ourselves

We are not here this evening, gentlemen, wholly as philanthropists, and you will credit us with candor when we acknowledge that to some extent at least we are actuated by selfish motives The line of the road in New York is mostly agricultural, and its people desire this road to afford a competing outlet and a better market for their productions Jamestown is a manufacturing place, we want competing lines of railroad to reduce the freights upon our manufactured articles and increase our profits, and we have not failed to learn the lesson of the last few years that this is a railroad era, and that it is death to the commercial prosperity of any place to neglect railroad connections

Lastly, I consider briefly the benefits the proposed new railway will afford the oil producers of Pennsylvania

In the first place, saying nothing about any railroad combinations or South side Improvement Company, it would afford the oil regions direct communication with one of the finest agricultural regions in Western New York and cheapen in your market those great staples of food which, because you do not raise, you are compelled to buy A railroad 100 miles in length is a big institution To you, as its headquarters, would naturally gravitate its shops and incidental benefits, and I can see plainly that while it would help us at Jamestown in various ways perhaps hundreds of dollars, it would for every such hundred add thousands of dollars to your material wealth and growth

The proposed new railway would connect at Jamestown with the A. & G. W. and D, W & P, twenty-five miles farther it would connect with the Erie Railroad, and at Buffalo connect with all the various roads to the East and West which centre at that point, including the Great Western of Canada, as well as connecting with water communication, at the best point for shipping on the lake, by way of the Welland Canal, Lake Ontario and the St Lawrence to Europe, or by way of the Erie Canal to New York

3 I am informed at Titusville, that the freight from this point to New York City upon oil, before the last great rise, was $1 42 per barrel I am also told that oil can be carried upon a road direct from here to Buffalo, 105 miles upon a favorable grade for 25 cents per barrel, and pay the carriers a remarkable profit. In the season of navigation the Erie Canal can carry the same oil to New York for the same price, making the freight from Titusville to New York 50 cents a barrel I see by the fourth annual petroleum report, published in the HERALD of Monday, that the annual production of the Pennsylvania oil regions in 1871, was 5 795 000 barrels Suppose that 3 000 000 barrels, a little over one half of this production, is shipped at 50 cents per barrel by way of the producer's route to Buffalo and thence by canal to New York, the saving in six months to the oil producers would be 92 cents a barrel, or $2,700 000

Gentlemen, this entire road from Titusville to Buffalo, 105 miles, if its managers will only be modest and not steal an unmeasurable portion of the stock, can be built and equipped for that amount

As a business investment the oil producers can afford to build every inch of this road from Titusville to Buffalo, but we only ask you to build 32 miles from the State line to Titusville, and thence as far as you please to reach all your oil producing territory, and to make your portion of the consolidated road the longest, so that the oil producers shall forever hold the controlling interest

Thus far, gentlemen, upon the supposition that there is no railroad monopoly no South Side Improvement, but allowing that this combination is to continue, with your own road to Buffalo you can lay down your oil upon the Erie Canal for 75 cents a barrel in the season of navigation, or send it to Europe via the Welland Canal, and when navigation shall close you have a railroad connection at Buffalo with the Great Western and the Grand Trunk Railway of Canada, which never have been, and I think I may add with confidence, never will be, a party to any railroad monopoly, combination or conspiracy in the United States

Regretting, gentlemen, that the call for this meeting had not been more extensively circulated, and embraced in its scope delegates from the line of our proposed railroad, who could have more ably and with more authority presented its claims. In behalf of the Jamestown delegation I return you our thanks for the attention with which you have listened, and we submit the plan of our proposed new railway for your careful and, as we hope, your ultimate favorable consideration

J B Reynolds, of Oil City, said they did not want to hear about railroad property What they wanted was to protect themselves as soon as possible against the combination Some plan must be devised by which the producers could unite their means for the common benefit, the protection of small producers as well as large, and this must be done at once, not by waiting for new railroads

John D Archbold said I must beg pardon from this assemblage for presuming to occupy their time when there is so many older and abler men here to speak I am of the opinion of the last speaker that some more immediate means, some other contingencies than railroads and pipe lines, which seem to be the order here to-night, are needed in this emergency I represent in an humble way the refining interest of the Creek, which is as necessary an adjunct to the producers in fighting this great monopoly as either railroads or pipes If the South Improvement Company control the total refining capacity of the country the producers are powerless against them The oil is not available in market in its crude state Thus far in this issue the refiners of the Creek have taken a non-committal position Their sympathies and prejudices are all with this region, and they believe the producers will appreciate the importance of the two interests falling together in this crisis The refiners of this section want to do what is right in this issue toward the producers, but they must protect their own interests They trust that their position in the matter will be correctly interpreted by the producing interest, and that the good result of this great agitation will be to centre the whole refining business to this, its natural location, the producers' region The refiners will be happy to meet a committee of producers to talk over with them the whole matter

The question was asked how long it would take to lay a pipe line to Erie

Mr Lowry said a pipe line could be laid in as short a time as some speakers had taken in talking about a railroad It was only necessary to get the right of way and you could lay a pipe line to Erie, and no power on earth can prevent it There was no difficulty in getting there without crossing a road, and if you crossed one you could go under it

Judge Marvin, of Erie, moved that two committees be appointed, one from refiners and one from producers, to confer upon the best method of uniting their interests

A P Bennett said the interests of producers and refiners were identical, and it was a mistake to suppose otherwise He thought, however, that some immediate relief must be devised, something that would not involve the delay of building railroads and pipe lines

The Committee on Resolutions then read the following report

Whereas, The prosperity of every branch of business and the welfare of the people depend to a great degree upon the freedom of commercial intercourse, and

Whereas, Recent developments have revealed the existence of a system and dangerous combination which threatens to deprive the oil region of Pennsylvania of all the advantages flowing from a commerce unfettered by power and untainted by fraud,

Resolved, That we declare our hostility to every form of monopoly, every unholy conspiracy against the natural laws of trade, and every selfish combination of capital and power to impose burdens upon this hitherto free and favored region

Resolved, That we demand of our Legislature, now in Harrisburg assembled, the immediate enactment of such legislation as will relieve this section of the Commonwealth from a burden legislated upon us in defiance of law, equity, honor or patriotism

Resolved, That we pledge ourselves each to the other that, throwing aside all preferences and political considerations, we will enforce this demand by the use of all such means as the exigencies of the case may justify

Mr Bishop of Oil City offered the following resolution

Resolved, That the quickest and surest relief to the oil regions from the oppressive monopoly that now threatens it is not in the construction of new transportation lines, but in a concerted combination of producers and refiners to reduce the production, burst the Ring, and bull the market.

Mr Galbraith said such a policy would be a failure all round There must be some relief from our avenue of trade You are like the boy after the wood chuck, must have him, because you are out of meat. The sooner we put our hands in our pockets the sooner we will accomplish it

D Roberts expressed the opinion that if Mr Bishop's resolution went into effect it would raise such a breeze in the oil regions that his new Derrick would be blown to the ground as well as the thriving villages throughout the whole oil region We should look at this in a business light We have to devise some way of getting our product to market If the Petroleum railroad was completed to Erie, or a road to Buffalo was built, we could crush the gigantic combination in less than three weeks If it were known to-day that $500 000 had been subscribed to construct a road to Buffalo, delegations would be sent from the roads that are in this combination, to treat for terms for freight How are we to build this road? We have 15 000 barrels daily production, allowing the producers to put aside one dollar per barrel daily, for the purpose of building this road, in 90 days they would have a surplus fund of $1 500 000 towards the construction of a road that would in all future time compete with this combination We have in a territory of 50 miles square, one of the richest natural products, and to a greater extent than any other territory of its size in the world This combination proposes to take it from us, land and all, and that which we have traveled through mud to our arm pits to obtain Now, gentlemen, we have some rights of our own, and we propose to maintain them like men Another mode of relief has been proposed, by constructing pipe lines to connect with the lake by way of Erie, at an expense of $100 000 which might be well for temporary relief to pump oil through, but we could not pump a barrel of flour or a bushel of potatoes back This combination under this arrangement would starve us out in 60 days in high freights for produce to be brought into the oil regions for consumption We regret our inadequate report of speaker's remarks, but his arguments in favor of constructing a road to some point where water communication could be reached were telling, and seemed to impress the audience deeply with their importance

F H Gibbs, of Titusville, made a statement in regard to the Petroleum Company Railroad, asserting that it would be built as speedily as possible

A considerable discussion followed upon Mr Bishop's resolution and it was finally referred to the general committee

A motion was made that the meeting, when it adjourn, adjourn to meet at Oil City, on Friday next, at 10 a m

Mr W L Lay warmly advocated the motion Oil City had come here, and Titusville should return the courtesy He wished to keep the thing red hot Mr Severance concurred cordially in the remarks of the last speaker We should all co-operate together The motion was carried unanimously

Judge Marvin, of Erie, offered the following resolution, which was adopted

Resolved, That two committees of three each, one of these committees to be selected from the refiners upon the creek, and the other from the producers, to confer together and with the general committee and determine a method of consolidating the power of both interests to meet the present great emergency of the trade

Adopted

The chair appointed the following committee Wm Hasson, Oil City, W W Hogue, Tidioute, L Emory, Jr, Titusville

Dr W B Roberts moved a committee be appointed to confer with the Baltimore & Ohio railroad Carried

The chair appointed the following committee W B Roberts, F W Mitchell, S Q Brown, W Hartley, W T Scheide

On motion adjourned

A Producer Wants to Stop Sunday Work, and to Drill Fewer Wells

PETERSBURG Feb 26 1872

EDITORS HERALD —Permit me through the medium of your paper to offer to the oil producers of this region some suggestions, and since in oil matters we are sometimes mistaken, I shall not herein claim to speak with much "authority" First, then, would it not be better for us to close up our wells on Saturday evening, say at 6 p m, and fire up early on Monday morning, and thus serve a double purpose—maintain the first day of the week, or Lord's day, for ourselves and employes, as we should, or at least not force many who hold places under us as pumpers to violate their conscience by working on the Lord's day or run the risk of losing their places, as we do—get our oil out a little slower but more economically, and get a better price for it Example—A works ten wells six days in the week at an average cost per well of six dollars per day, amounting in twenty-six days to $1,560 for the month, and gets an average of four barrels per day from each well, amounting in twenty-six days to 1,040 barrels B works ten wells seven days in the week, producing the same average amount of oil and at the same expense per well per day, and since he works his wells four days more in the month than A it will cost him $1,800, but he will get 1,200 barrels of oil in the month Now we think it fair to assume that if there were one-seventh less oil produced, say 1 300 barrels per day, the price would be $4 50 per barrel instead of $3 50 Then the accounts would stand thus

A's cost of running, $1 560 producing 1 050 barrels at $4 50 $4 680, Leaving A's monthly profit $3 120

B's cost of running, $1,800, production, 1,200 barrels at $3 50, $4 200 B's monthly profits, $2 400, showing an actual gain of one third or nearly by shutting down on Sunday, based upon assumed data probably not much wide of the mark This is the dollar and cent view of the question, now as to the moral I claim not to be particularly over zealous or religious touching the observance of the Lord's day, as some do I do not think it a day specially set apart for long wry faces or sanctimonious airs. No sir, I think that "the Sabbath was made for man and not man for the Sabbath" God gave it to man to bless man one seventh part of time, wherein man is to cease from his labors, rest his body, turn his thoughts to God, cultivate spiritual life or wisdom But this time-honored institution needs not any defence, it is accepted by the Christian world and especially is it an institution dear to the heart of the American people, and I ask, can the oil producers afford to insult public sentiment, lend their aid and help to demoralize and break down one of America's noblest institutions? I think not.

Then, in regard to working territory, do we not put down too many wells? Do we not expend $24 000 in putting four wells, when one well at a cost of $6 000 would get all, or nearly so, that the four would get, and thus waste the proceeds of the richest fields in our mad haste to get rich in the shortest possible time, and end by putting too much oil on the market and depressing prices below cost of production and waste our accumulations in hunting new fields Now, I suppose that most of the operators will to the above say, yes I beg leave, therefore, to submit to the earnest consideration of all persons engaged in producing oil, especially at this time, and to those who are about projecting new wells, and in view of the threatened monopoly and of the fact that we are now producing too much oil on your best territory, put one well where you usually placed four, use no torpedoes as long as your wells continue to pay well And, Mr Editor, I will say this aside to you, O what an amount of doctored whiskey we oil men do drink, and O how we do swear at our horses and engines, and sometimes at dry holes, and, finally, O what poor accommodations the A V R Road furnishes from Parker to Oil City on Saturdays—not enough coaches Lawrence, do better

PRO BONO PUBLICO

Communication

Building And Loan Associations.

These valuable institutions were commenced in Philadelphia in 1850, and it is to them alone that that city owes its great prosperity The merchant, mechanic and laborer live side by side in peace and contentment, each owning his comfortable and neat dwelling But they had their trials and difficulties in the beginning of their associations, as we have in regard to ours of Titusville The wealthy men who largely represented the city at that time contended against them, and used their influence in public and private to discountenance them, and even in the halls of our Senate and House of Representatives used their money to stop them from obtaining their charters, but the march of progress was onward, and nothing could deter them in their new undertakings, hence acres of uncultivated ground were purchased, and by joint industry thousands of beautiful and commodious houses were built, an ornament to the city, and supplied the mechanics with desirable homes, and the consequence was that the large manufacturing workshops were filled with skilled mechanics, and they in return were the recipients of medals of unequaled skill and ingenuity, which undoubtedly would have been lost, only they could live nicely and save some money by having their homes at a very moderate rent, and also in a very short time have homes of their own Then the capitalists perceiving the march these associations had obtained, turned them over into similar associations, and the handsome brown stone fronts on Broad, from Green street to Columbia avenue, have been the result Chestnut, Walnut, Spruce and Pine have grown in the same proportion as we would One of the branches of the noble and gigantic associations represent capital in our midst unknown I have references to the firm of Morris & Tasker, of Southwark, they bought squares of ground, until they could count their miles, in the southern portion of Philadelphia, and belonging to the Noble Association they invested more of their capital, and have not only the gratifying result of knowing that each and every one of their mechanics and laborers own their own homes, but that the streets bear their names, and will remind others in future generations what industry and perseverance can accomplish Within the past year seven thousand brick buildings have been built by these building and loan associations, and ours, also, with the confidence that it will undoubtedly convey to each and every one wishing to join it, soon rise to gigantic proportions Let us now we have the capitalists in our midst who keenly feel that the rental of their properties must decrease in or on or before the first of April To illustrate this to its fullest extent, we will take one square of two story brick houses in Philadelphia, 14 feet [illegible] 16 feet front by 50 feet deep, they consist of a parlor dry cellar, two rooms and summer kitchen with range on the first floor, and in the second floor two rooms, and bath room also, with a neat small garden, renting for $14 per month or selling for $1,100 On the next square, fronting on the principal street, the houses are 16 x 18 feet front by 70 feet deep, good cellar, containing seven rooms, and bath-room also for $18 per month, one month's rent in advance or good security, and in this great city, adjoining forests where pine lumber is very cheap and easy of access You cannot build such a house or houses for the above amount, so far as for rent, they would ask $25 to $30 Now let every industrious person make up his mind to own his property, join this noble and praiseworthy association, and be free from the oppression of odious landlords L

ARTERS PETROLEUM DIRECTORY —We have just received a copy of Arters Petroleum Directory for 1872 It contains a very complete list of the names of residents and business men in this section of country, together with the advertisements of prominent business houses It comprises Allegheny township, Cornplanter township, Plumer district, Cherrytree township, Lamberton borough, Franklin city, Foxburg, Lawrenceburg, Oakland township, Oil Creek township, Oil City, Parker's Landing Perry township, Petroleum Centre, Pleasantville, President township, Richland township, Rockland township, Rouseville, Rynd Farm, and Oil Creek district St Petersburgh, Scrubgrass, Tidioute, Titusville, etc, in fact, the entire oil region The work has entailed a large amount of expense and labor, and should be on the desk of every business man in this section of territory

TRAIN No 9, which leaves Oil City at 9 44 a m, met with a slight accident at Farr Farm yesterday It was leaving a side track when a car loaded with pig iron jumped the frog About an hour was consumed in replacing the car, and the train arrived here just as the 12 10 train was leaving the depot

ODD FELLOWS HALL DEDICATION —A public dedication of the new Odd Fellows hall at Rouseville will take place on Monday, March 1[illegible] A public lecture will be delivered in the evening by Past Grand Sire, James B Nicholson, of Philadelphia All lodges and members are cordially invited to be present on the occasion By order Committee of Arrangements
